CHARLES-TOWN: Printed by PETER TIMOTHY, Printer to the Honourable the COMMONS HOUSE of ASSEMBLY, at his Office on the BAY, near the Exchange.

Mr. TIMOTHY,

If you will, without delay, inſert the following pieces, on a moſt intereſting and important ſubject (which have been lately publiſhed in the PENNSYLVANIA JOURNAL) in your GAZETTE, you will convince the Public, that you have not deſerted the cauſe of AMERICAN FREEDOM, and oblige at leaſt 99 in every hundred of the ſettled inhabitants of this province, amongſt them,

Your conſtant reader and well-wiſher,

JUNIUS BRUTUS.

THE repeated attempts of miniſters on the rights of the colonies, have all been happily defeated by a timely and ſpirited oppoſition.—Wiſe in our choice of meaſures, unanimous and firm in our reſolutions, we have expoſed and baffled all their deep laid ſchemes againſt our invaluable liberties.

The Stamp-Act, a miracle of policy, contrived with almoſt a certainty of ſucceſs, underwent the fate it merited.—It was repealed, but it did not allay the ferment of which it was the cauſe.—This was afterwards kept up by a blundering policy, which ſcarce has a parallel—Whilſt they endeavoured to quench the flame with one hand, they added fuel to it with the other.—Illiberal and ignorant almoſt beyond belief of the real intereſts of both countries, they have been always wandering in the dark.—I wonder that the miſtakes of former miniſters have not operated by way of warning to the preſent—But my wonder ought to ceaſe, when I recollect that warning is only for the wiſe, and that the fooliſh are ever blind to caution.

When weak and wicked miniſters are at the head of affairs, what good can be expected from their conduct?—But even genius, with the beſt intentions, muſt err, where there is want of information.—Both the former may exiſt in the ſame mind, and yet the owner be very unfit for a miniſter of ſtate, without the latter.

I appeal to the facts for proof of the total incapacity of the late ſecretary for the American department, and am ready to think, with Junius, that he could not have been appointed for any known quality he poſſeſſed, except that "of writing a good hand."

The conduct of the miniſtry at home has been altogether ſo unfavourable to us, that it cannot juſtify the ſmalleſt expectation of friendly feelings towards us.—We are to rely for the ſafety of our rights on our wutchfulneſs, vigour, and activity.—If we ſupinely fold our hands to ſleep, when our liberties are in danger, we can expect nothing but to be made hewers of wood and drawers of water—But lethargic and ſenſeleſs muſt we be, if we are not rouſed by the preſent attempt to violate our honour and our faith, and ſpoil us of our deareſt rights.—Let us not be cajoled by the cunning and artifice of miniſterial policy.—Let us not be wheedled into a ſcheme, which, though it may promiſe ſome pecuniary advantage to us, is replete with the moſt dreadful miſchief.—Let us not be drawn aſide from our true intereſts by ſpecious appearances, nor forſake the ſubſtance for the ſhadow. If this invidious attempt is attended with ſucceſs, it will, very juſtly, be looked upon by all the world, as a formal ſurrender of the principle, which is the chief bulwark of all our liberties.—It will be a ſtanding precedent for future impoſitions; and to theſe, no bounds can be limited after the principle is once given up. There is no ſuch thing as keeping to it partially:—It muſt be ſacredly adhered to in every inſtance, or totally relinquiſhed. A Tax of the value of one penny levied upon us without our conſent, as effectually takes away our liberty, as if the ſum were a million. It is not the value of the Tax we object to, but the principle on which it was laid.

If we now tamely render up our rights, after ſo long and arduous a ſtruggle, the infamy of it will, deſervedly, be charged upon us by our children, and by all poſterity:—They will curſe the folly of their fore-fathers, who, if it had been in their choice, as it is in our power, might have preſerved, and handed down to them the ineſtimable bleſſings of Freedom.

But I flatter myſelf, that fault will never be aſcribed to us.—I think I perceive a manly determined ſpirit amongſt the people, to withſtand the preſent attempt:—They ſee the danger, and I know their reſolution to combat it whenever occaſion requires.

Let us call a Meeting of the inhabitants of this town, to fix upon the mode of conduct we are to purſue upon the arrival of the Tea.—And when once this is done, we ſhall know how to act with preciſion and certainty.

I make no doubt the Gentlemen to whom the Tea is to be conſigned, will nobly ſpurn at the office.—I muſt confeſs, I feel for the delicacy and ſenſibility of theſe Gentlemen, which I am ſure muſt be deeply wounded on their appointment to an office, the execution of which would be ſo injurious to their country.—I look upon it as a direct attack upon their integrity and honour, as men and fellow-citizens, and I hope, they will ſhew a proper reſentment to their friends at home, who ſo unadviſedly procured their appointment.

We who have enjoyed the ſweets of Liberty, muſt be ſenſible of the great value of it, and therefore cannot keep too watchful a guard over it.—Our ſafety, welfare and happineſs, depend upon this invaluable poſſeſſion. It will be often attacked by our artful enemies, they will endeavour to deprive us of it, by every method their evil minds can ſuggeſt.—They will practice all the arts of corruption againſt us, and if they ſee a fair opportunity, will perhaps ſeize by force what they could not obtain by policy.—Be wakeful and watchful therefore my Countrymen, in the cauſe of your Freedom.—It is a cauſe of great dignity and importance, and merits your beſt endeavours. If you exert yourſelves properly, you may be a free and happy people; if you do not, there remains nothing for you to expect but the moſt miſerable ſervitude.

CASSIUS.

For the remainder of theſe Pieces, turn to the SUPPLEMENT.

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 2.

IT is reported, that a certain American Governor concluded a letter which he lately wrote to one of the Secretaries of State with these remarkable words: "I now perceive nothing will re-eſtabliſh my authority, therefore I beg to be recalled, and that ſpeedily, otherwiſe I ma probably be ſoon called to another world."

We are aſſured that all the reports of an approching war are totally groundleſs, and calculated to ſerve the purpoſe of affecting the price of ſtocks.

Extract of a Letter from Copenhagen, Auguſt 21.

"His Daniſh Majeſty has for ſome time paſt paid a very ſtrict attention to the buſineſs of ſtate, and has ſhewn an alertneſs and ſpirit which, contraſted with his long habit of deſpondency, gives the greateſt pleaſure to the whole Daniſh Court. He is particularly examining into the ſtate of his army and navy, and has made ſeveral regulations in both."

SEPTEMBER 7.

On Saturday the ingenious Mr. Harriſon, inventor of the Time-Piece, received the laſt payment of the 20,000l. for his uſeful diſcovery; the ſum paid him was 9,585l.

Extract of a letter from Berlin, Auguſt 27.

"His Pruſſian Majeſty has juſt given orders for all the regiments of foot, now at Potzdam, together with a detachment of four thouſand picked men out of the Royal Artillery regiments and two hundred engineers, with a great number of labourers, to hold themſelves in immediate readineſs for marching into his Majeſty's new poſſeſſions in Poliſh Pruſſia, and a large quantity of cannon, military ſtores, &c. are likewiſe preparing to be ſent off with them. The intent of this preparation is publicly ſaid to be effectually to reduce and ſecure the cities of Dantzick and Thorn."

Extract of a letter from Peterſburg, Auguſt 17.

"We expect ſoon to hear that our grand army has again paſſed the Danube; for we have received advice, that Count Romanzow, after ſtaying ſome time on this ſide of the ſaid river, to refreſh his troops, had left ſome regiments to guard the banks, and had marched thirty werſts to the weſt, in order to paſs it there.

"In the account which her Imperial Majeſty has made public, of the operations of her troops on the other ſide of the Danube, ſhe declares, that in the engagemet between General Weiſman and Nyman Bacha alone, on the 3d of July, the Turks had 3700 men killed, and 1300 mortally wounded; and that they loſt their artillery, baggage waggons, ſtandards, and all the veſſels they had on the Danube, to conſiderable amount, beſides thoſe loſt in other engagements; and that ſhe had the greateſt reaſon to be ſatisfied with the conduct of her generals, and the bravery of her troops."

In an ample detail of the operations of the Ruſſian army on the other ſide the Danube, printed at Peterſburg, and which makes twenty-one pages in quarto, among other reaſons for their retreat we meet with the following: Our cavalry was ſo harraſſed by continual ſkirmiſhes with the Ottomans, and by the bad forage, that they could no longer ſuſtain the fatigue: During the whole time they were obliged by the alertneſs of the enemy, to be under arms. Want of water was another hardſhip, they underwent, particularly the corps that was detached to reconnoitre the Grand Vizir's army. In the night they were expoſed to the rains and winds, without covering, and in the day were continually haraſſed by freſh bodies of troops, which were renewed by others, who fought with fury to revenge their former loſſes; whilſt we (ſays the narrative) were obliged with ſmall fatigued bodies of men, to attack numerous bodies who were repoſed in places fortified by nature, and of eaſy defence."

In another place the narrative informs us, "That when the Ruſſian collums advanced towards Oſman's entrenchments, they were furiouſly aſſailed by the Spahis that were in ambuſcade, who were no ſooner diſperſed by our artillery, than they were replaced by the Janiſſaries from the entrenchments who fell on our right wing with horrible noiſes, by which means 300 newly enrolled men, unacquainted with their manner of attack, ran off, and put the the reſt of the corps into diſorder; but luckily the laſt diviſion came on, and keeping up a continual fire, gave the former time to rally; after which Colonel Klitſcka took poſſeſſion of their entrenchments, and not one of the enemy would have eſcaped, had they not retired into Siliſtria."

In the camp which the Ruſſians took poſſeſſion of before Siliſtria were found the orders of the grand vizir to the Niuman Pacha, which were "for him to fall on the back of the enemy whilſt they were attacking Siliſtria, by which means not one of the infidels could eſcape; and that if Niuman did not ſucceed, he had to fear diſgrace from the Sultan, and puniſhment from the holy prophet."

Yeſterday arrived the mails, by the Duke of York packet, Capt. Dickinſon, in 26 days from New-York, and the Eagle, Capt. Nicholls, in 29 days, from Charles-Town."

Extract of letter from a Gentleman in Dublin, dated Aug. 23.

"During the late riot, until this day, the Magiſtrates remained quiet and inactive; however, things had now proceeded to ſuch an open violation of all law and order, that they determined to exert their authority. Accompanied with a few of the Highland regiment, and ſome of the 63d, they went in queſt of the rioters, and came up with them about two or three o'clock at the head of Cavendiſh-Row. They expoſtulated with them for ſome time upon the madneſs of their conduct, and the neceſſity to which they were reduced of applying force to force. The mob, always deaf to reaſon, anſwered them with curſes, menaces, and ſhowers of ſtones. Sir Anthony King, a Magiſtrate, who has given many ſignal proofs of his intrepid courage, exaſperated by their boldneſs, repelled the moſt forward amongſt them with ſeveral ſmart blows of his ſtick. Four men, armed with ſwords, attacked him at once, all of whom he beat back, and deferred giving the word of command to the ſoldiers to fire, until two piſtols were diſcharged at him ſucceſſively; then he commanded nine of them to keep up a repeated fire until they ſhould be commanded to ſtop; at the ſame time he ordered the Highlanders to charge them with bayonets. Three rounds of ſhot from the military ſoon diſperſed this riotous multitude. By the beſt accounts I have learned, there are ſix killed, and ſeveral wounded. It is truly lamentable that the innocent and guilty ſhould be ſo often involved in the ſame doom. I have juſt heard, that two ſervant girls and a man ſervant, a great diſtance from the ſcene of action, fell by ſtraggling ſhots."

SEPTEMBER 9.

It is now diſcovered that the partition of Poland was neceſſary to the completion of a more extenſive ſcheme, formed by the Courts of Vienna, Berlin, and Peterſburgh.

Every engine, we hear, has been ſet to work to cloſe the breach which lately happened between two of the City Magiſtrates, but hitherto without effect. The diligence uſed on this occaſion is plainly owing to the near approach of Michaelmas Day.

Some politic manœuvres are preparing to be played off by the patriots in both houſes the enſuing ſeſſion, which, it is thought, will entirely baffle every effort of the miniſtry to make head againſt them.

Laſt Saturday returned from a Tour thro' the Weſt India Iſlands Mr. Benjamin Legaré, Merchant.

To the Freemen of South-Carolina.

My Friends and Countrymen,

THE day is at hand, when you may expect a ſhip to arrive here, with TWO HUNDRED and SEVENTY CHESTS of TEA, from the Eaſt-India Company's Ware-houſes in LONDON; on every pound of which the parliament of Great-Britain, wherein you are NOT repreſented, have aſſumed a power to impoſe a tax of three pence, under the diſguiſe of relieving that company, but to eſtabliſh a precedent, for ſubjugating you to future impoſitions equally unjuſt and impolitic—to raiſe a revenue, out of your pockets, againſt your conſent—and to render aſſemblies of your repreſentatives totally uſeleſs. The meaſure is clearly the aſſertion of a right, to tax YOU internally.

If there is any virtue remaining amongſt you, and that I truſt there is—if you know the value of the ineſtimable bleſſings we enjoy, and have an indiſputable right to, under the ENGLISH CONSTITUTION—if they are worth preſerving—if you have the eſſential welfare of your POSTERITY at heart—you cannot heſitate a moment what to do.

You will not ſuffer yourſelves to be deluded by the publication of two ſelect pieces marked Z, in the firſt and laſt pages of the General Gazette dated the 26th inſtant, wherein the cloven foot is very conſpicuous, and which therefore is looked upon, even by the moſt zealous aſſertors of the liberty of the preſs, at this time, as an inſult, offered by the publiſher, to that community which has given him bread; nor will you fail to regard with the utmoſt indignation, every artful endeavour or attempt, by exciting jealouſies or otherwiſe, to deſtroy or weaken that confidence between ALL the colonies, upon which the Salvation of the whole principally depends.

But you will, without loſs of time, aſſemble, every man of you that can, of what country or perſuaſion ſoever, who is a ſettled inhabitant of this province, or who lives by America—You will enter into decent and ſerious deliberation, upon the preſent important occaſion, carefully avoiding every kind of inſult or outrage—and you will reſolutely determine, upon the proſecution of every juſtifiable meaſure, which ſhall be found neceſſary, to aſſert and ſecure your natural rights, and to avert the enormous evil, big with innumerable others, which hangs, as it were, by a ſingle thread, ready to burſt upon your heads.

It is to be lamented, that it cannot be denied, there are men in this community, who have ſo little regarded the common intereſts of the colonies, as to import Teas from Great-Britain, ſtampt with the American duty! but it is to be hoped, that every trace of public virtue is not eradicated from their breaſts, and that hitherto they have rather inadvertently, than wantonly, continued the baneful importation—preſuming that the Tea-Duty would have been ſoon repealed.

If this hope has any foundation, you will not have occaſion to wait on and deſire them to diſcontinue ſuch dangerous practices—they will prevent your deſires—they will unite and chearfully act in concert with you.

As to the gentlemen who, it is ſaid, are appointed commiſſioners to receive and diſtribute the ſtampt Tea, they are ſo well known amongſt us, (one of each houſe having been members of the late General Committee) that ſcarce a ſingle inhabitant can be perſuaded to believe, they will deſcend to an acceptance of the deteſtable commiſſion.

Unite—be firm—and prove yourſelves worthy of that Liberty which is the boaſt of Britiſh ſubjects.

On PATRIOTISM.

THERE is no virtue or character but what have had their counterfeits; but theſe, like falſe coin, prove the reality of their originals. Patriotiſm and Patriots have ſuffered much from this quarter: But happy for them both, it has only been amongſt thoſe people who view the moſt exalted virtues and characters through the medium of their own depraved hearts: Thus the ſtars, the moſt exalted bodies in nature, appear low when viewed in ſtagnating waters. Patriotiſm is as much a virtue as juſtice, and is as neceſſary for the ſupport of ſocieties, as natural affection is for the ſupport of families. The Amor Patriæ is both a moral and religious duty. It comprehends not only the love of our neighbours, but of millions of our fellow creatures, not only of the preſent, but of future generations. This virtue we find conſtitutes a part of the firſt characters in hiſtory. The holy men of old, in proportion as they poſſeſſed a religious, were endowed with a public ſpirit. What did not Moſes forſake, and ſuffer for his countrymen! What ſhining examples of Patriotiſm do we behold in Joſhua, Samuel, Maccabeus, and all the illuſtrious Princes, Captains, and Prophets amongſt the Jews. St. Paul almoſt wiſhes himſelf accurſed for his countrymen, and kinſmen after the fleſh. Even our Savour himſelf gives a ſanction to this virtue. He confined his miracles and goſpel at firſt to his own country. He wept at the proſpect of her ſpeedy deſolation, and even after ſhe had imbrued her hands in his blood, he commands his Apoſtles to begin the promulgation of his goſpel at Jeruſalem. I might go on further, and ſhew that this benevolent virtue ſometimes goes beyond humanity, and extends itſelf to the very ſoil that gives us birth. Joſeph charged his brethren with his laſt breath to inter his bones in his own country. Themiſtocles ordered his body to be removed from Perſia after his death, in order that it might mix with his native duſt in Greece, although he had been baniſhed from that country. Father Paul, the Patriot of Venice, remembers his country in his laſt moments, and dies with ESTO PERPETUA on his lips. Inſtances of the ſame kind might be multiplied without number, both from ancient and modern hiſtory.

The ſocial ſpirit is the true ſelfiſh ſpirit, and men always promote their own intereſt moſt, in proportion as they promote that of their neighbours and their country. As well then might the apoſtacy of Julian, or the fictions of Voltaire, ſully the character of the author of our religion, or the licentious manners of the age, deſtroy the reality of a future ſtate of rewards and puniſhments, as the defections of Patriots, or the opinions of the enemies of ſociety, deſtroy the exiſtence of real Patriotiſm. Faith will be moſt precious when it is hardly to be found on the earth; ſo this exalted virtue, when it is moſt rare, ſhall poſſeſs moſt ſtrength and luſtre. Its ſincerity ſhall be diſtinguiſhed, like ſincerity in religion, by its ſteady perſeverance, in oppoſition to every difficulty, temptation and reproach.

The deſign of this attempt to reſcue Patriotiſm from obloquy, is to prepare the way for calling upon you to ſhew whether the oppoſition you formerly gave to the Britiſh Parliament in their attempts to tax the American Colonies, was founded upon reſentment and party rage, or whether it flowed from a well-informed zeal in the cauſe of liberty. You have heard of the machinations of the enemies of our country, to enſlave us, by means of the Eaſt-India Company. By the laſt accounts from Britain, we are informed, that veſſels were freighted to bring over a quantity of Tea taxed with a duty to raiſe a revenue from America. Should it be landed, it is to be feared it will find its way amongſt us. Then farewell American Liberty! We are undone forever—All the images we can borrow, from every thing, terrible in nature, are too feint to deſcribe the horror of our ſituation. But I rely too much upon that virtue which has hitherto diſtinguiſhed my countrymen, to cheriſh a thought that this will be the caſe. Let us with ONE heart and hand oppoſe the landing of it. The baneful cheſts contain in them a ſlow poiſon, in a political as well as a phyſical ſenſe. They contain ſomething worſe than death——the ſeeds of SLAVERY. Remember, my Countrymen, the preſent æra—perhaps the ſtruggle will fix the conſtitution of America for ever—Think of your poſterity.—— HAMDEN.

To the Right Reverend JONATHAN Lord Biſhop of ST. ASAPH.

My Lord,

I BEG leave, in the name of my country, to call upon your Lordſhip to mingle your "indignation with ours, againſt the "artifices" of the miniſtry, for their late attempt to "ſeparate the intereſt of the colonies from that of Great-Britain," through the medium of the Eaſt-India Company; and at the ſame time to thank your Lordſhip, in this public manner, for your excellent Sermon, preached before the Society for propagating the goſpel in foreign parts.

It was reſerved for you to pluck a quill from ſome angel's wing, to mark the common intereſts and duties of Britain and her colonies. It was reſerved for you, to reſcue the Bench and the Lawn Sleeve from the reproach under which they had fallen, during our late ſtruggles for liberty. You have removed the juſt and unjuſt prejudices entertained againſt Prelacy by people of every denomination in America. You have made us forget the Biſhop, in the Man, and the Baron of the realm, in the Britiſh American Patriot.

You are too happy in the poſſeſſion of that virtue, and in the contemplation of thoſe abilities, which gave birth to your Sermon, to receive the leaſt addition to your happineſs from the approbation, or gratitude of the Americans. But allow us, my Lord, for our own ſakes to aſſure you, that we pore over it as the moſt finiſhed piece of compoſition in our language:—We view it as a monument of the ſtrength and extent of human genius in diſcovering and enforcing the moſt complex truths;—we prize it as a common MAGNA CHARTA of Britain, and her empire in America.

Accept, my Lord, of the incenſe of gratitude from millions of American breaſts. It riſes from the altar of Juſtice, perfumed with the love of liberty. Laurels—not ſuch as are raiſed in the hot beds of Court favour, but the ſpontaneous, unfading laurels of America, ſhall cluſter thick around your brow, and when you "ſleep in dull cold marble," your name ſhall live in this weſtern world "while the ſun ſhines and our rivers flow."—— HAMDEN.

Philadelphia, October 15, 1773.

The following was publiſhed immediately after the VIRTUOUS PENNSYLVANIANS had entered into the ſpirited Reſolutions inſerted in your laſt Monday's Gazette.

Meſſrs. BRADFORD,

THE appearance at the State-houſe this day, and the reſolutions formed by ſo reſpectable a body of people, without one diſſenting voice, will reflect much honour on the inhabitants of Pennſylvania. They truly prove, that we deſerve that Liberty for which we are ſo willing to contend. There ſurely will not be found one ſingle man among us, who can entertain the abject thoughts of ſubmitting to become a ſlave, his life and property at the diſpoſal of others, but he muſt tread on the ground, this Land of Freedom, with pain, and redden with a conſcious bluſh, whenever he ſhall meet any of his fellow-citizens, who have this day determined to continue free. The man, the monſter in politics, who would on this deciſive occaſion, for a little "temporary ſafety or emolument, give up eſſential liber-"ty, deſerves neither liberty nor ſafety." He is an enemy to his Country. He does all he can to embitter every tender tie; to derogate from the dignity of human nature; and to ſink mankind into beaſts of burden. Of ſuch beware; the downcaſt eye of the ſlave will diſtinguiſh him: The wooden ſhoe, and rivetted fetters will not be wanted to point him out. I ſaid, that man deſerves neither liberty nor ſafety who would ſurrender either, for any preſent emolument on thie deciſive occaſion. An occaſion, which may perhaps be deciſive of the rights and enjoyments of millions and of ages. It is well known the idea of levying taxes on Americans, for the purpoſe of raiſing a revenue, to ſupport an independent, that is in other words, an abſolute government over us, is of novel invention. It was ſuggeſted at a time, when the Colonies were dandled in the ſecurity and ſlumber which ſucceeded the tumults of a tedious war. Yet we ſtarted at the firſt idea of danger to our liberties; and when the Stamp-Act paſſed, we were all awake. Unuſed then to complain of our parent, Britain, and fearful even to miſtruſt, the firſt language of Americans was plaintive and humble. But when the parliamentary Reſolves of a right to tax us in all caſes whatever, were matured in Acts to levy; and when our Petitions, Complaints, Remonſtrances, and Agents, were repeatedly denied a hearing, then we proved that we were the Sons and not the Baſtards of Britons; and Pitt, the illuſtrious Pitt! rejoiced, "that America reſiſted." When we had to make an immediate reſiſtance to an Act of the Parliament of Great-Britain, treaſon and rebellion were imputed by them to every ſtep we took, and the utmoſt vengeance of the law was denounced; yet did we continue to reſiſt, and the reſiſtance was crowned by Heaven with ſucceſs. And ſhall we now do leſs? Having once experienced the advantage of firmneſs and union, ſhall we yet doubt what firmneſs and union can effect? Are we not the ſame; and ſhall we not wiſh to continue the ſame, we then were? Can we now reliſh ſlavery and poverty better than we could then? Or is the nature of ſlavery itſelf altered? Or is it leſs ignominious or more ſafe to ſubmit to the machinations of an almoſt bankrupt Company, who have been ravaging and waſting one quarter of the Earth, and ſacrificing thouſands of their fellow creatures to their pride and avarice, than it would have been to have crouched under the burden impoſed by the auguſt parliament of Great-Britain? If we then dared to refuſe ſubjection to one, and prevailed againſt the officers of government; ſhall we be timid in trying to defeat that dangerous attempt now meditated by the other, and ſubmit to be duped by the ſervants of a company! No, this day's tranſactions evince our reſolution, that againſt any body of fellow ſubjects whatever, we will ſupport inviolate thoſe rights, and the property which we refuſed to ſurrender to power. We have branded, with that infamy it deſerves, the traiterous combination between the miniſter and the India company againſt the rights of America. They ſtand recorded as enemies to this country. Their intereſt and our well-being are now incompatible. They cannot prevail againſt us, if we continue firm, united and prudent. And if they do not prevail, we may reſt aſſured, that no other body of men will be found in the kingdom ſo ſervile in principle, ſo diſtreſſed in their circumſtances, and ſo miſ-informed or hardy in their enterprizes, as to ſuffer themſelves to be bribed into an attempt to execute the preſent miniſterial ſyſtem of American ſlavery. A. Z.

Meſſrs. BRADFORD,

THE artifices of the Deſigning are many and various; the conduct of the Honeſt is more uniform, and open to common view. The man of ſubtilty ſhould always be followed with ſuſpicion; and every meaſure which can aſſume different appearances ought to be examined with the utmoſt caution, eſpecially thoſe meaſures which may be propoſed by an adminiſtration, endeavouring to eſtabliſh a power ſubverſive of the rights of the ſubject, and adopted by individuals, or a company of men, who may be intereſted in the event.

How far the meaſures propoſed by the preſent adminiſtration in Great-Britain, with regard to America, may tend to ſubvert the goodly fabric of American liberty, is a point which, thanks to Heaven, we are not at this day left to examine. We know that we have property; we know why we ought to have it; we know very well, that there is no power that ought or can take it from us. I ſpeak as a Briton; as a deſcendant from, and yet a brother to Britons. We alſo know that the preſent attempt to land Tea in the colonies, ſubject to a duty impoſed by the parliament of Great-Britain, contrary to the expreſs will of the coloniſts, and their repreſentatives in their ſeveral parliaments, tends abſolutely to annihilate all American property. We know the conſequences following, it will be poverty and the moſt ſervile ſubjection to PENSIONED MISCREANTS.

Shall it be ſaid, that the duty is not to be paid in America? The Act is very expreſs: The duty ſhall be paid in America, for the purpoſe of raiſing a Revenue from the colonies. * Shall it be ſaid the Eaſt-India company will pay the duty in England before it is ſhipped? Suppoſe they ſhould; will it not be paid in conſequence of an act of the Britiſh parliament, by whom we are not repreſented? Will it not be paid expreſsly on a branch of the American trade, and be taken finally from the conſumer in America? Will it not be paid for the dangerous purpoſes of ſupporting and multiplying officers among us, civil and military, independent of the people who muſt ſupport them? It would affront the common ſenſe of Americans, to ſuppoſe they can be lured and deceived by ſuch a pretence. The parliament orders that we buy no Tea but from the Engliſh Eaſt-India company; we muſt ſubmit to pay them a higher price than others aſk; we muſt ſupport a board of commiſſioners, Boſton penſioners, and cuſtom-houſe officers, among other things, to enforce theſe orders. Beſides all this, we muſt pay a duty on getting it to America; and this duty is forced from us to aſcertain a moſt dangerous power, to take us much more as may be wanted for the moſt dangerous and inſulting purpoſes.

The virtue of America has hitherto rejected the uſe of Tea, thus circumſtanced. The people have refuſed to drink it; our merchants [that is, the merchants of Philadelphia] have generouſly refuſed to receive it, and our ſhips have refuſed to bring it. The attack on our liberty and property having failed, recourſe was then had to an expedient. The rich and powerful India company were taken into the meaſure.

They were allowed by an eſpecial act to ſhip off Tea to America on their own account, inſtead of being obliged to ſell it at home by public ſale. The American captains had the virtue and wiſdom to refuſe taking it on board their ſhips. What can be done next? Impoſition and artifice can change its face like Proteus. We are made to believe the duty will be paid in England: Still, Americans, it is the ſame duty, impoſed by the ſame authority, for the ſame purpoſes, and will come finally from us clogged with charges for paying it. Nay more, ſhould it become the courſe of trade to pay the duty on ſhipping, in many inſtances, as in caſe of loſs at ſea, &c. it will be an additional loſs to this country: But there can be no ſuch thing as evading the duty by this artifice. No lord of the treaſury, or miniſter of ſtate, will dare to diſpenſe with an act of parliament; or at this time of day, levy a tax without law: But if the American duty on Tea is received in England, it muſt be received there without any law; if the ſame Tea, tho' having paid the duty in England, is landed in America, it is ſubject to the duty ſtill to be paid in America. The American Board of Commiſſioners will, or can levy it: It is to be paid to their hands: They are accountable for it to the Exchequer as much as for any duties paid to them. Shall it be inſinuated that the Eaſt-India Company are, by a late Act, authorized to ſhip this Tea on their own account, clear of all American duty? The anſwer is plain. The American duty is not repealed; it is not, by any one word in the Act referred to. The Act appears to have an intention plainly to the intereſt of the Treaſury, for the Commiſſioners or High Treaſurer have the whole of the ordering of the quantity to be exported; the Acts referred to, as altered, ferred, by this Act, relate to the receipt of the Tea by the Company in England, the duties and customs to be paid there, and the mode of sale there; the late Act is founded on its being "expedient that they should be permitted to export Tea to the Plantations and foreign parts, without their (that is the Company) being charged with any duty," as they used to be as soon as it went out of the warehouse. And the proviso of the act is, that the Tea so exported (and some of which is now daily expected to arrive) "shall, in all respects not altered by this act, "be liable to the same rules, regulations, securities, penalties, "and forfeitures, as Tea exported to the like places (viz. the "plantations) was liable before the passing of this act." What security, what penalty, what forfeiture is Tea or any article subject to, that pays no duty, and is allowed freely to be shipped? Is it in such faint and doubtful terms the parliament have been used to withdraw duties and taxes? Americans! the duty on Tea shipped by the East India company, must be levied from you in America, or the minister who dares to levy it in England without law, or suspends the law for levying it in America, risques his head.

Charles-Town, November 12, 1773.

Mr. TIMOTHY,

AS it is beyond dispute, that a Cabal has been formed in London, united with some who are obliged to this province for a great part of what they enjoy, to depreciate Carolina INDICO; so I made it a point, all the last summer, to defeat their ungenerous designs; and altho' I did not then fully succeed, I hope to do so, by the end of January next, if the planters pay a proper regard to my well-intended advice, which is,

Not to sell their Prime Indico, without the Inferior sort; and, if the purchasers should not be competent judges of either, to consult with those whose long experience has made them such.

Tho' appointed and sworn Appraiser of all Dyes and Drugs, the produce of His Majesty's colonies in North and South America, it does not become me, to give an opinion, or to garble and seal, for any gentlemen, but those to whom I am engaged, as in the list annexed. If they think fit to purchase, either for exportation, or to sell again here, they can (as they did the past year) furnish me with as much as I can well attend to from 9 o'clock in the morning 'till 2 in the afternoon; after which last hour I never do (or did in London) give my judgment of the quality or value of any Indico; for if I did, it would be impossible to do justice to my employers or self, nor should I merit that preference, with which some of the most eminent Salters, Dyers and Brokers in England have honoured my appraisement. I have therefore nothing further to offer upon this head.

But, as a diligent enquiry has lately been made, by a very able and accurate gentleman, now in London, whether and how far, I have promoted, and do continue to promote, the interests of this province there; and when the enquirer returns, I have reason to believe he will make a candid representation of my conduct to the General Assembly, in order to recommend my being allowed a handsome yearly salary, besides fees; lest that should be supposed the principal motive for my conduct, I think it necessary to make this public Declaration, that I have nothing so self-interested in view—that I can, and would, be perfectly content, with the possession and use of the house in which I now reside, and of five country-born negroes, during my natural life, afterwards to descend to such Native of the province, as the governor for the time being, upon the recommendation of the general assembly, might think proper to appoint Inspector-General of Indico, and to his and their successors, during life.

To obtain an establishment of this kind, I must confess, is a great and principal object of my views, next to that of establishing the reputation of Indico and other Dyes made in this country, beyond the possibility of being injured by the low arts of any mercenary designing Cabal whatsoever.

While it may please God, to permit the enjoyment of my sight, even with the inconsiderable life-annuity I am entitled to, I can be happy—with the provision above mentioned, no man could be more so—but, should any accident befall me, thro' the infirmities of age or otherwise, I am persuaded it is not difficult, for you, or any of my friends, to conceive, how very wretched a Being would be Yours, &c. MOSES LINDO,
Inspector-General of Indico.
